

Days Between Oral Argument and Opinion Filing¹

This table shows the average number of days between oral argument and the filing of majority opinions authored by each of the justices. Given that a variety of factors could influence the length of time between oral argument and the filing of an opinion in a particular case—including the time taken by other justices to write concurring or dissenting opinions—averages for individual justices should be compared over an extended period.

	Number of Majority Opinions Authored	Ave. No. of Days From Oral Argument to Opinion Filing
Abrahamson	10	89
Bradley	12	106
Crooks	13 ²	111
Sykes	11	125
Wilcox	11	97
Prosser	12	159
Bablitch	12	128

¹ This table does not include the three unanimous per curiam decisions: State v. Miller (In re Miller); State v. Church; and Mitsubishi Heavy Industries America, Inc. v. Circuit Court for Milwaukee County.

² As explained above, this table includes Vincent v. Voight, in which Justice Crooks wrote the “majority” decision.
